THE ORIGINAL SINCE 1886
Coca-Cola

Coca-Cola®

POP ART

Since 1935, the Coca-Cola® bottle has been represented in works of art by hundreds of artists. However, its main pictorial spotlight was achieved thanks to the pop art movement that arose as a reaction to Abstract Expressionism. This was fundamentally due to a change of sources: the surrealist roots of that movement were replaced by the Dadaists of Pop.

Ironically, people wanted to blur the lines between high and low culture, opening up a conversation for the democratisation of the arts and giving contemporary art a new direction.

With the creation of DIAMOND LABEL, one-of-a-kind bottles are created that "help people to celebrate their special relationship with Coca-Cola® that goes beyond its great taste", according to the president and general manager of CCNA Sparkling Beverages, Hendrik Steckhan.

This packaging invites consumers to begin another journey through time, going back to 1906, when the deliciously uplifting product they love was packaged in an equally attractive predecessor to today's iconic contoured glass bottle.
